

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

[0025] Systems, methods, and computer programs for testing a processor design are provided. One embodiment is a system comprising: means for searching a file that contains test results for a lot of wafers at two or more voltage levels; and means for determining an optimal operational voltage based on which of the two or more voltage levels had the least test failures.